

Construction of the breakwater on the habitat basin. The breakwater is constructed of 1000 lb stones which were placed by barge mounted crane.

Northward view of the habitat basin. The habitat basin is a man-made bay constructed by pulling back the slag on the site and replacing it with armor stones covered with “fish friendly” sands and gravels.

