

Fort Carson pre development hydrology
Eastin, Sarah M CTR USA to: Amy Clark

01/28/2011 12:23 PM

History: This message has been replied to and forwarded.

Hi Amy-

Fort Carson's definition of pre development hydrology works out to be prior to man's impact - i.e. buildings, roads etc. This would work out to be the same drainage structure that we currently have just everything consists of the natural soils and vegetation. We have given no time period in the definition. If you have any other questions please feel free to contact me.

Thank you,

Sarah Eastin
Fort Carson Stormwater Coordinator
DPW - Environmental Division
1626 O'Connell Boulevard, Bldg. 813
Fort Carson, CO 80913
Office: 719.524.2478
Cell: 970.385.7838
CARSDPWwEDSW@conus.army.mil

EPA-BAFB-00001200