Subject: Cape Wind Operations Plan

Just spoke with Mark Rogers. The Cape Wind Operations Plan is going to be public on Friday for final approval by NEPA. Mark wants us to know that their NEPA attorneys advised them to not change documented plans to avoid a full blown EIS for changes. He indicated that this plan names Quonsett as the hub for staging, but it also notes that New Bedford is building a terminal that will be used if construction is complete in time. Being a public document, he wanted to give us the heads up, but assured me once the operations plan is approved by NEPA, they will file for a formal project change to name New Bedford as the staging hub. His attorneys feel this is the best tact and are confident the project change should be seamless. We may get questions from press. Again, this gets published Friday.

Best, K
