Armistead Russell, Ph.D.
Chairman, Ambient Air Monitoring and Methods Subcommittee
Clean Air Scientific Advisory Committee
Science Advisory Board
U.S. Environmental Protection Agency
1200 Pennsylvania Avenue, N.W., MC 1400 F
Washington, D.C. 20460

Dear Dr. Russell:

Please accept my gratitude for your April 29, 2010, letter concerning your review of the U.S. Environmental Protection Agency's White Paper on Particulate Matter Light Extinction Measurements. The comments offered by the Clean Air Scientific Advisory Committee's Ambient Air Monitoring and Methods Subcommittee have been very helpful to me and my staff as we continue to assess monitoring options to support the current review of the Particulate Matter National Ambient Air Quality Standards.

I recognize your evaluation of the white paper involved considerable time and thought, and I thank you and the Ambient Air Monitoring and Methods Subcommittee members for your effort.

Your expertise and guidance is always appreciated, and I am looking forward to working with you on other important issues, including lead-monitoring methods and near-road network design.

Sincerely,
